According to SIA, its 2021 Diversity, Equity & Inclusion

“This honor reflects the commitment to diversity, equality, and inclusion by the entire team at AMN Healthcare,” Salka said. “Everything that we’ve accomplished – and our future achievements in DE&I – are driven by AMN team members, who have been resolute in their support for change. Our progress is consistent with the hopes and aspirations of our team and with the needs of the communities where we all live and work.”

In the past year, AMN has made significant strides in DE&I, including raising female representation on its Board of Directors to 56%, among the highest of any publicly traded company, while increasing people of color in leadership to 21%. The company engaged an enterprise-wide 21 Day Racial Equity Challenge, and every team member completed an Inclusive Communications course. In the marketplace, AMN launched a program to fund 100 minority-owned businesses to achieve MBE certification and has spent more than $164 million with diverse companies and organizations.

AMN has initiated a dynamic action strategy for DE&I in 2021, including utilizing technology to drive greater inclusion in hiring and promotions, improving connections with historically diverse universities, and increasing promotions and reducing turnover among historically underrepresented groups. AMN is also significantly increasing its spending on diversity initiatives with community organizations and professional association partnerships.
